Board Plans for Future

The members of the 1986-1987 Board of Education have set many long-term goals to be pursued for the continued progress of Northville Public Schools. Extending the development of a well-coordinated K-12 program remains a primary concern for the Board members. This year, examination of co-curricular and elective programs and gifted/talented programs are additional topics being emphasized. Under the leadership of president Douglas Whitaker, the members have handled these tasks with competence and efficiency. With Dr. George Bell and the other central office administrators capably carrying out the Board policies on a day-to-day basis, Northville continues to provide high quality educational experiences for all students.

Administrators Tighten Ship

Principal David Bolitho and assistant principals Ralph Redmond and Bill Hamilton have once again successfully maintained the excellent order and discipline for which Northville is renowned. With yet another stupendous year behind them, our administrators look ahead, intending to continue Northville's reputation as one of the finest educational facilities in the area. Plans to be even more actively involved with student leaders and in extra-curricular activities top the list of priorities for the 1986-1987 school year. With such an exceptional student body and knowledgeable staff backing them, the head administrators cannot help but keep up the fine work that makes NHS the great school it is today.

Support Staff Maintains Order

The supporting staff of NHS plays a crucial role in school maintenance. Secretaries Nan Oliver, Mary Lillemoen, Betty Colovas, Joyce Greywall Regina Barwikowski, and Sharon Cutler form the backbone of the administrative staff, managing both student and office affairs. In the cafeteria, lunch workers prepare appetizing and nourishing meals, and succeed in keeping the dining area clean, despite the large number of people. School janitors do their part by making sure the hallways and classrooms are cleaned daily. The dedication and hard work of these individuals is greatly appreciated by students and staff alike.

Ms. Barbara LeBoeuf smiles about the addition of her new class, Global Studies.

Mr. Ronald Meteyer incorporates several new teaching techniques into his curriculum.

Mr. Doug Dent outlines the ancient Roman Empire for his history class.

Counselors Provide Advice For Students

The NHS counselors, Frank Satarino, Jack Wickens, Alta Olson, and Gladys Cohen, make up a necessary and indispensable unit of the high school. Advising graduating seniors in regard to college scholarships and applications, introducing freshmen to a stressful new environment, and helping sophomores and juniors cope with the demands of their schoolwork and adolescence form the basic components of a counselor's job. Much of the stability and confidence of the student, and hence the school as a whole, is indeed due to the efforts of these four men and women. With such compassionate individuals behind them, offering advice and a sympathetic ear, Northville students cannot help but be overwhelmingly optimistic about the future.

Theresa Wen admires Mr. Wicken's casual charm.

Mrs. Olson attempts to resolve a scheduling conflict.

Consultants Offer Special Support

The special education department offered a wide selection of services and programs for students with special needs. Under the supervision of six teacher consultants, students prepared for their academic classes and strengthened basic study skills. With the recent departmentalization, each academic area within the high school was the responsibility of a single teacher consultant. Special education students were also assisted by the school social worker, Mrs. Sue Borcherts, and school psychologist, Mr. Jan Wolyniak. New this year to the NHS staff were teacher consultants Mr. John Campbell and Mrs. Holli Curl.

Mrs. Curl finishes up her paperwork after a long day.

Supervising students during study periods is one of Mrs. Cassady's varied responsibilities.

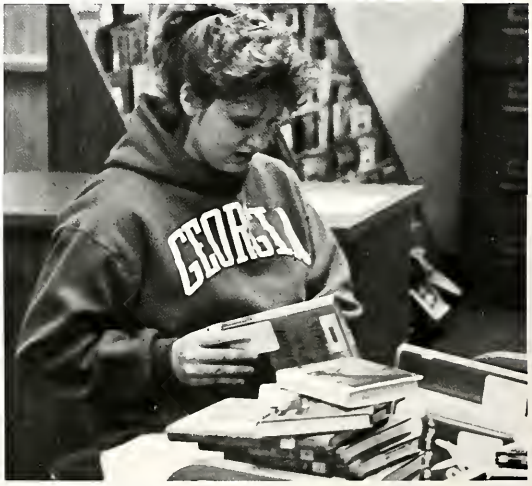
Librarians Enjoy Additions

This was a year of expansion for the NHS instructional materials center. The new computer system enabled full-time librarians Mrs. Hood, Mrs. Ibach, and Mrs. Mowat to increase the efficiency of their demanding jobs. Keeping track of check-outs, overdue books, and helping teachers and students look up information is extremely time consuming, but with the help of hourly student aides, these capable women managed to maintain the most widely used resource center in the area. Added during the renovation, the computer lab and new classroom have significantly expanded the endless possibilities of such a learning facility.

Stephanie Laramee adopts a new hang-out.

Craig Schlonsky finds amusement in the card catalog.

Librarian Barbara Ibach and Linda Groves test out the new computers.

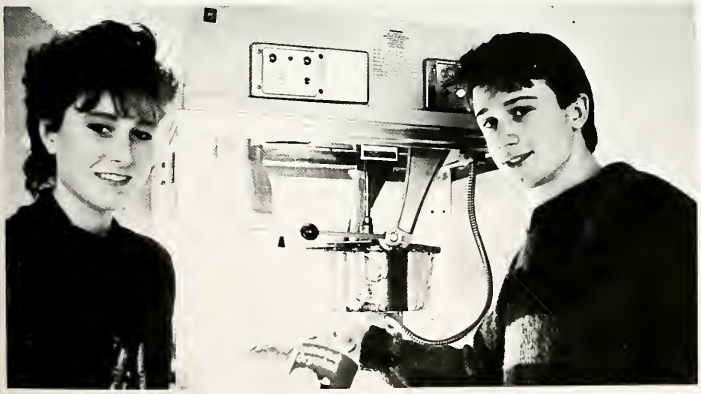


Kristen Cutchins plunges into her research project with enthusiam.

Matt Hubert and Kim Connery discuss typing techniques.

Mr. Burley makes a futile attempt to fit down Santa's chimney.

Bonnie McKinnon and Carrie Eko attentively mind the school store.



Karen Morgan and Adam Behen demonstrate their popcorn-making finesse.

Students Profit From Business Courses

Computer classes are becoming more and more popular as the demand for computer literacy increases. Northville High has risen to meet this demand by offering a wide selection of courses in programming and applications. Another extensive unit available in the business department is the marketing program. Students learn the fundamentals of making a profit and can go on to work in the school store. NHS has gone far in assuring this generation a significant place in the varied field of business.

NHS Spells Success E-N-G-L-I-S-H

Northville High School houses one of the superior English departments in the region. Each year NHS students win scholarships and gain prestige through their participation in state-wide writing contests. Literature classes, ranging from Modern Thought and Literature to Novels to Modern American Literature are widely popular and provide students with a firm foundation in the literary world. In addition to the advanced writing and novel analysis courses, Northville High's English department offerings include reading labs and poetry instruction, designed to fill every student's needs.

Arts Color NHS With Talent

The art department offered a full curriculum of introductory and advanced courses in ceramics and drawing. This year saw the departure of Mr. Roy Pedersen, an extremely gifted artist who taught classes in all aspects of art. Mr. Pedersen's talent and wit will be sorely missed by Northville High School artists. Mrs. Marilyn Hopping, a veteran English teacher, took over his classes with ease, putting her art major to good use.

NHS Bands Sound Off

The membership of the NHS bands has increased dramatically this past school year. With so many new students, teacher Michael Rumbell has had much to do. With the help of assistants Bill Bailey and Steve Chisnell, the band director skillfully pulled together the groups, merging the younger members with the older and more experienced. The variety of instruments and the talent of the musicians who play them enabled the bands to score remarkably well in competitions all year long and to provide high quality musical entertainment for the entire student body.

NHS Choir Harmonizing with Excellence

The results of Mrs. Mary Kay Pryce's heartfelt dedication to her choir students has once again become evident through the numerous honors NHS has received. This year, Carrie Bickner, Karla Pearson, and Jason Merecki, in the honors choir, made it to regional choir competition. Jason Merecki went on to become a member of the state choir. The Concert Choir, Northville Singers, Girls' Ensemble, Male Chorus and the Barbershop Quartet participated in state competition and pep assemblies, as well as local performances. This year, NHS hosted the ninety members of the State Male Honors Choir.

Foreign Language Something to Talk About

Northville High School offers a unique and exciting foreign language program, consisting of French, German, and Spanish courses. Students enrolled in this program have the opportunity to participate in interesting and educational field trips, such as visiting museums and going to ethnic restaurants. Among the special activities this year were a visit to a Mexican folk dance presentation and lunch at a Mexican restaurant. Christmas time found students sampling the holiday foods of their adopted countries.

In addition to learning the mechanics of speech and grammar, NHS's Language department includes extensive units on culture, novels, and writing techniques in the curriculum. Students may continue their study of foreign language for their entire four year stay at the high school.

Added this year to the Foreign Language department staff were Frau Judith Kammeraad and Señora Cheryl Gibbs.

Mrs. Kammeraad points out a specific German sound for her students.

Mrs. Prestel reads a French dialogue as her students listen intently.

Jean Riney and Sue Schweim put the final touches on their sewing projects.

Not Just Playing House

Homemaking skills, though rarely acknowledged, are essential for survival and well-being. Students often neglect the need for learning and fully developing these basic skills. Realizing this, the NHS Home Economics department makes it exceedingly difficult to overlook the wide expanse of general knowledge required for successfully maintaining a household.

Carla Tibble expertly leads classes in parenting, living skills and the traditional courses, including clothing and foods. The home economics staff ensures that any student participating in the program will, upon completion, possess the basic skills that are vital to setting up a home.

Industrial Arts Utilizes New Materials

With the year 1986 came a new wave of industrial arts students eager to test the wide assortment of changes that resulted from the recent renovation. The variety of equipment has allowed students to better take advantage of the various hands-on experiences available. The now centralized location of the industrial arts department has also contributed to the quality of NHS's already superior program. The addition of Mr. Dennis Falletti's course, Woodworking, completed the long list of available classes that make up the industrial arts department.

New Facility In Full Swing

Due to the delays in the high school renovation, 1987 was the first year the science department was able to fully enjoy its new facilities. One recently added feature was the centrally located office and storage area, opening off the classrooms for convenient access to materials. Science courses offered at NHS range from biology to physics. Earth science, a requirement for incoming freshmen, was added last year to the long list of challenging classes available. The abundant sup-ply of competent teachers and modern laboratory equipment has made it easy for NHS to rise above competing school districts and more than adequately prepare students for the future.

Tim Goode, John Castle, and Kris Krol cultivate new theories in Mr. Edwards' biology class.

Chris,
Lets hope life in Wayne treat you better than it did here.

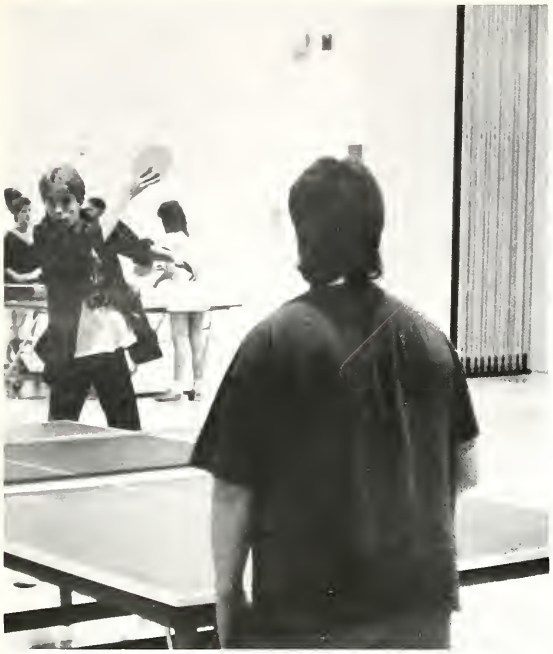
Jackie Long and Erin Holmberg struggle to maintain a balanced perspective in chemistry lab.

Brian O'Leary attempts to melt lead with his piercing glare during an earth science lab.

P.E. Sports Brand-New Facilities

Dr. Bubel, Mrs. Cook, Mr. Johnson, and Mr. Lauber expertly instructed some of the most enjoyable courses offered here at Northville High. Physical education provided students with an exciting change of pace and encouraged attitudes of life-long fitness. Bowling, body building, archery, and swimming were a mere sampling of the diversified gym activities included in the physical education curriculum. With renovated facilities and a new gym, the department shared the enthusiasm of their students.



Keeping his eye on the ball, John Frederick slams a return volley at his opponent.

Freshmen phys. ed. students compete in a fierce game of volleyball.

Bottom's up for Mr. Lauber!

Math Courses Equate with Success

Northville High School possesses one of the most competent mathematics departments in the state. Designed to meet the varying needs and abilities of the students, NHS offers everything from remedial to advanced courses. Teachers continue to prepare students for college and future careers, not only through superior teaching techniques, but also with individual interest and concern.

Chris Bowman and Steve Janik find it easier to concentrate in relaxed positions.

Jennifer Schuerman concentrates while Ms. Zidell reviews homework problems.

Mr. Johnson amazes his calculus class with his derivative humor.

Chris
Best of luck
at your

Social Studies Puts Students On Top

For students interested in the world around them, NHS's Social Studies department is a must. With history courses ranging from U.S. in the Twentieth Century to Medieval and Ancient History, and psychology courses like Adult Living and Personal Psychology, Northville strides ahead of other school districts when it comes to understanding the past and present. New this year, Global Studies has made a significant impact on students who are concerned about world developments. Informative and stimulating, social studies courses are a definite high point in the educational lives of NHS students.

Karen Stinson, Amy Gasser, and Erika Nelsen stand proudly holding their awards for psychology research with Ms. Lauber.

Ms. Walker helps Bill Schulz with a minor childcare problem during their Eggby project.

On-The-Job Training at NHS

The Hilltop Shoppe is a store completely staffed by students. Bigger and cleaner than ever before, the shop sells a wide selection of candy, clothing and school supplies. The Hillbottom Shoppe, located in the cafeteria, provides students with popcorn and candies during lunch.

Through the NHS Co-op program, students can receive on-the-job training while earning money and class credit. Positions range from office assistants to nursing aides. By enabling students to get a taste of a certain kind of job, Co-op provides a foundation for making career decisions.

Time Warp Through Yesteryear

The 1986 Homecoming court paraded proudly through downtown Northville, displaying the finest qualities NHS has to offer. Although the game against Canton did not reflect the high caliber of the Mustang players, students unanimously agreed that this year's Homecoming dance and activities were a tremendous success. Crowned king and queen, Tony Briningstool and Susie Rahimi reigned majestically over the underclass representatives: Juniors — Jenni Stevens and Chris Anderson; Sophomores — Beth Swayne and Todd Daniels; Freshmen — Katie Kemp and Kyle Feliks. The band captured first place with their float, "Rock Through the Ages." "Time Warp Through Yesteryear" proved to be a suitable theme for this year's dance, for Homecoming '86 will surely go down in history.

Upper right: Kurt Reickel and Danielle Loomis are all smiles.

Lower: The senior class stares off in astonishment.

Sweet Smelling Profits

One of the most popular and profitable fundraisers that the organizations of NHS participate in is the flower sale. Through Mr. Michael Burley, the school purchases carnations from South America at a minimal rate. The flowers are delivered on Fridays during school hours. Sold to students at the low price of one dollar, the average profit from a flower sale is $300. In addition to the traditional colors, the carnations can be tinted to match holidays and special occasions. No matter what time of year flowers are sold, the students' reactions are always positive.

Shannon Couzens clusters her ideas for a Eastern Michigan contest entry.

Competitive Writers Refine Their Talents

Under the direction of English instructor Pat Dorrian-Sandbothe, some of the finest poets and short story composers at NHS organized to form one of the strongest writing units in the area. Meeting every Tuesday night, the talented group developed their writing techniques and challenged their creative abilities to the fullest extent. Students revised their works for state-wide competition and entered contests sponsored by Eastern Michigan University, Western Michigan University and St. Mary's College, among others. These latest additions to the world of competitive writing have most certainly lived up to the high standards of Northville's prestigious writing alumni, and show no intention of slowing down in the future.

Students Tune In To Trends

High school students have always initiated fads and fashions, and those attending NHS are far from an exception. From punk to preppy, the halls are a showplace for the current trends. Hairstyles are cut, shaved, dyed, moussed, and sprayed into statements reflecting the attitudes of today's youth. Banana combs were a popular addition, while bandanas and scarves made their comeback on the fashion scene. Trench coats and fringe also made a seasonal appearance this winter, giving way to bleached jeans and sandals in spring. Footwear accented outfits with leather hightops and metallic-colored loafers, while gaudy jewelry and belts balanced them out. Creativity was the key for fashions this year. When considering the high standards of Paris and New York in this field, one cannot help but feel Northville High is not far behind.

Hidden Treasure

Northville High School's IMC conceals a goldmine in the room housing IBM computers. With the IMC open at lunchtime and one hour before and after school, the possibilities for student use are endless. Tuesdays and Thursdays are devoted to games, while students may use the computers for educational puposes throughout the week. Although word processing is not available, the IMC loans educational disks and computer manuals to students. Be sure to be a part of the IMC gold rush and cash in on this valuable resource!

Students Aid NHS Faculty

Northville High School prides itself on a well-run and polished system. The smoothness of this system, however, is not due entirely to the efforts of the staff and teachers. Much credit should be given to student volunteers. Students who have completed the required courses and cannot find a suitable elective often opt to be a student aide. Student aides perform many necessary tasks that require extensive time and patience.

Correcting papers, running errands and entering scores into computers make up the core of an aide's daily duties. In addition to teacher aides, student volunteers are also needed in the office and library. Morning announcements and daily attendance forms are dependent upon such volunteers. In the library, students keep books in order and help locate information. As a school volunteer, students gain valuable experiences in the teaching field and learn how to relate well with people.

"Don't Drink The Water"

The 1986 school play Don't Drink the Water, by Woody Allen, hosted a cast of dramatic newcomers. Starring students Darren Candela, Jennifer Gardine, Scott Paredes, and Karen Krueger, the play consisted mainly of premiere performers. Under the experienced direction of Nick Beasanski, a newcomer to Northville, the cast put on an outstanding performance. Incorporating students of all grade levels, Mr. Beasanski gave students acting experience and helped prepare them for future dramatic endeavors. Due to the hard work and ingenuity of Charles Kepner, the set construction crew, and various technical crews, production ran smoothly.

Anything Goes At NHS

With a talented cast and dedicated crew, NHS students produced an outstanding show. Thanks to the combined efforts of Nick Beasanski and choreographer Jane Beier, Anything Goes, involving soloists and chorus members, blended smoothly thoroughout the musical. Anything Goes takes place on a plush 1930's Love Boat-like cruise liner. Senior Terri Forte played Reno, a sexy nightclub entertainer who tantalizes the men of the ship with her fun angels, Anne Griffith, Laura Garr, Tanya Hammond, and Karen Krueger. Seniors Rob Dietiker and Karla Pearson played Billy and Hope, with Kris Spigarelli as Hope's nagging mother. Pat Balai portrayed Moonface, also known as public enemy number one, and Carrie Bickner played Bonnie, a Betty Boop accomplice to Moonface. Sue Evelyn and Steve Valentini also held starring roles. Thanks to the help of assistant director Carrie Holladay, chorus, leads, and crew cooperated to present a dazzling show.

Spirit Surges at NHS

Participation among NHS students soared to a peak during Spirit Week 1987, organized by the Student Congress. Students from all classes, and even some teachers, dressed in their favorite garb for traditional pajama day, beach day, and orange and black day. Popular new opposite-sex day and costume party day tested students' creativity and promoted originality. Lunch activities, including Jello toss, Vernor's guzzling, toilet papering, and dress-your-partner, required agile mouths and strong stomachs, as well as quickness and coordination. Class competition night involved even more students in leap frog, piggy back, and wheelbarrow races. Once again, classes competed in musical chairs and tug-of-war. The night also featured two new messy events: cake tossing and spaghetti eating.

Seniors led the tally for spirit night as well as the entire week, with sophomores taking second, juniors third, and freshmen placing fourth. The week concluded with a Valentine's Day dance, proving very profitable for the Student Congress and worth all their appreciated effort.

Student Congress Boosts Involvement

Under the co-presidency of Anne Griffith and Beth Buckland, this year's Student Congress has developed a new NHS constitution, establishing voting procedures for class elections, student responsibilities and Homecoming traditions. With the help of its sixteen members and officers, Student Congress has elicited more school spirit and laid firm groundwork for future organizations to follow.

Through events like the Turkey Trot, Spirit Week lunch activities, and Homecoming activities, Student Congress has boosted student involvement once again. Two blood drives in the spring have involved the community in activities as well.

NHS student government has also interacted with other schools through activities in the WLAA, such as student leadership conferences at Oakland Community College, student exchanges, and chess and bowling tournaments.

Exchange Students Experience Northville

Two students at Northville High School are spending an exchange year learning more about themselves by studying other people.

Josef Robotka, from Germany, says it is popular in his country to go to America for a year as he is presently doing. Josef finds our school system easier than that of his home town because he has fewer courses to study at one time. What Josef admires most about America are American cars, especially the limousines. Josef admires the family-oriented environment of Northville.

Paloma Monteverde comes to Northville from Spain. She lives in a small town near Madrid that is much like Northville. Paloma tells us that she likes the people of the United States, finding them to be very friendly and interested in foreigners like herself. Paloma feels that Americans live well, enjoy life, and just like to have fun.

"No Problem"

The 1987 Palladium staff plunged into compiling the yearbook with one of the largest staffs ever. Finally situated in their own permanent room, the staff could effectively organize and produce their book. Under the direction of faithful sponsors Ms. Mary Culik and Mr. Bob Sharrar, the NHS staff converted yearbook copy production to Typevision, a time-saving method of typing all headlines, captions, and body copy on computer.

The Palladium staff also did much of their own photography and printing this year. Anne Griffith, as well as editors-in-chief Kara Goscinski and Jennifer Hansen, spent many late nights finishing layouts long after the staff left for home. Without the motivation of this elite group, the Palladium staff would have never been able to promptly make their deadlines or produce such a high quality yearbook.

Honor Society Expands Membership

The National Honor Society is a highly acclaimed organization. A minimum grade point average of 3.5 is required to become a member of this rapidly growing program. In addition to scholarly achievements, members must have a record of community volunteer work and display leadership abilities. Students participating in the Honor Society work diligently to raise money for scholarships that are offered annually to graduating seniors. Fundraisers, including the stocking sale, the entertainment book sale, and several flower sales, unfailingly provide assistance to this worthy cause. The yearly canned food drive is just one of the several community activities put together by the Honor Society sponsored by Ms. Serafa-Manschot and Mrs. Williams.

Debate Team Creates a League All Its Own

The NHS debate team returned this year for its second season under the coaching of English teacher Bud Bourgeois. Absent from the long list of organizations existing at Northville High for several years, the debaters are busily securing a place in the state-wide leagues. The Wavice League, to which Northville belongs, is specially designed for inexperienced schools just starting a team. This year's country-wide topic of debate for competition was the United States agriculture policy. Though they did not capture any awards this year, Northville gained valuable training which will be useful in establishing a stronger, more experienced team. The upcoming years hold many promises for future students with an interest in debate. This year's team included Jason Hill, Eric Stempien, Todd VanHoosear, Jim Thompson, Libby Cook, Mike Method, Matt Ho, Sue Schweim, Kara Connell, Brad Guerro, Margaret O'Doherty, Jenny Beyersdorf, Stephanie Mellor, Kris Czapski, Jeff Buell and Jeff Gursky.

Pep Club Boosts School Spirit

The Pep Club is responsible for many of the activities offered to the student body at NHS. The members showed their support by manning the concession stand during the football and basketball games, organizing a successful Homecoming, and sponsoring a flower sale. This year, the Pep Club made significant contributions to the community and school. With the help of Mrs. Siemasz and Mrs. Wisely, this exuberant organization has grown in size and spirit, making the future of NHS activities even more promising.

Northville Equestrians Harness Their Abilities

The Northville High School equestrian team met with tough competition this past season, struggling to win their first meet, tying their second, but disappointingly losing their third. A successful 1987 season is eagerly anticipated, however, with the return of seniors Sean Sullivan and Kristen Cutchins. These and other veteran team members look forward to teaching new recruits the techniques and skills necessary to lead the NHS equestrians to victory. With the hard work and dedication that has become customary of Northville's students, next year's team is expected to surpass all previous efforts. Many thanks to coach Kelly Sullivan, this year's graduating seniors Erin Sullivan and Wendi Trexler, both of whom contributed selflessly to the team, and good luck to next year's returning members.

Jazz Ensemble Makes Beautiful Music

The 1987 jazz ensemble, composed of student musicians from all four high school classes, was filled with the talent and diversity of true professionals. Incorporating instruments such as trombones, trumpets, saxophones, drums, guitars, and bass guitars, this well-disciplined group played a variety of both jazz and rock compositions. Along with regularly scheduled community concerts in the spring and fall, this year's group took part in several competitive performances. Northville scored very well in the regional band festival in April, once again living up to their reputation of having the highest musical standards.

Jazz ensemble meets every day immediately following school as a seventh hour. Under the direction of Mr. Michael Rumbell, these dedicated students sharpen their playing techniques in an informal atmosphere. The talent of senior guitarist David Cocagne and trumpet player Karl Freydl will be greatly missed next year, but with the strong section of junior members there is no doubt the 1988 jazz ensemble will be more than able to carry on the NHS tradition of excellence.

Students Take Stand Against Substance Abuse

Substance abuse is a continually growing concern, not only among parents and teachers, but also among the students of NHS. In order to face this dilemma, Northville's programs include two organizations dedicated to controlling the abuse of drugs and alcohol.

SADD, Students Against Drunk Driving, returned after its successful introduction last year by assistant principal William Hamilton. SADD's current staff boasts Mark Dozier and Beth Buckland as co-presidents, Roxanne Serkaian as vice-president, Anne Griffith as secretary, and Shawnemarie Pickarski as head of publicity. Thanks to the Northville Action Council, Bill Essex, a veteran of the Indiana State Police, was able to come in and talk to students about drug and alcohol abuse.

New to the school this year was BABES, Beginning Alcohol and Addictions Basic Education Studies, designed to help protect children and young adults from the temptations of substance abuse. The program consists of seven units, including stories, songs, puppet presentations, and group discussions. Jane Lauber, NHS's psychology teacher, is a certified BABES's presenter and has organized groups of students that visit local elementary schools, educating young children about substance abuse.

The efforts of these two organizations have helped the students of Northville High to more fully realize the hazards of drug and alcohol abuse.

Women's Tennis Serves with Style

The Northville High School women's varsity tennis team excelled this season. Losing one match to North Farmington and tying one with Churchhill, NHS players effortlessly defeated all other opponents. Leslie Oliver gave a stupendous performance, undefeated in league play and winning both conference and regionals. Also winning regionals and division conference were Lori Nance and Julie Millgard. Abby Edwards won division and came in as a runner-up for the regionals. Composed of such skillful players, the women's tennis team gave Northville High a season to be remembered.

Mustangs Make a Pass at Victory

This year's men's varsity soccer team, under coach Dave Yezback, achieved high marks in a district which yielded the 1986 state champions, Livonia Stevenson. The Mustang kickers finished the season with a 8-7-2 record, advanced to the second round of the regional playoffs, and fell to Livonia Stevenson in a 4-0 struggle. Captain Dan Magdich received all conference honors while captains Ken Kossak, Nick Morris and Doug Ayers were elected to the all-division second team.

Swimmers Glide On

Northville High has always sported first class swimming teams, and this year was no exception. The women's team, coached by Mr. Bill Dicks, tied the division meet with Churchill and effortlessly won the rest. The relay team of Shari Thompson, Sue Settles, Debbie Buell, and Michelle Stephens qualified for the state finals with their winning performance. Debbie Buell also reached state in her individual events. NHS divers, coached by Dr. Cecil Woodruff, also had a successful season.

NHS Golfers Come Up To Par

NHS golfers have spent this past season working hard on improving their skills. Long hours spent on the course helped to lower scores considerably. As a result of this intense practice, each individual contributed toward the team's victories. Under the tutelage of coach Harold McVicar, members perfected swing and accuracy. Seniors J. Moore, John Nordback, Dave Ruckle and Ric McCulloch lead the team forward in spirit and sportsmanship.

Mustangs Tackle Opponents

The Northville varsity football team's record of 2 wins and seven losses did not reflect its enthusiastic attitude this season. Captains Tony Briningstool, John McRae, and Jim Cerretani felt that this year's team was close-knit and played well together. The team plans to work hard during the off-season to strengthen and improve for next year. Senior Tony Briningstool led the team and league in tackles and was a member of the prestigious all-conference team.

Tennis Team Serves Up a Storm

The 1986 men's tennis team, headed by Terry Michelitch, Mark Reitenga, and Don Norton as tri-captains, took second place behind Plymouth Canton at the division championships. Michelitch, the only team member to reach the finals, went on to the state competition, but was defeated in the second round of play. For the most part, last year's team was composed primarily of younger players, promising coach Dick Norton a bright new season. With juniors Matt Oliver and Doug Kaminecki and senior Mike Reitenga the team should have no difficulty living up to their reputation as a solid, hard-working team.

But I want you to keep in touch and write to me and let me know what's been happening in your life there. I wish you all the luck in the world. If there's anyone who can make it in this world - you will be the one. You've got a lot of spirit and charm that can get you some where in this world.

Softball Players Practice Up

The 1986 season was a disappointing one for NHS's softball team. As a young team, the Northville players possessed very little pitching experience, yet showed great potential for the upcoming season. The backbone of the team was most valuable player Chris McGowan. Other honors were awarded to Sue Schrader for offense, Julie Kaestner for defense, and Kim Wilds for most improved. This season, with the help of coach Bob Gerlach, practice, and returning members, Northville High is destined for an improved record in softball.

Good Luck with your next school years & I hope to see you alot in 2 years from now, for I am moving back down there after high school & maybe we could be room mates. Good Luck into your new boyfriend proxy.. I wish you luck

Women's Soccer Heads For Success

The 1986 women's soccer team finished the season quite successfully, despite the lack of returning experienced players. The capability of tri-captains Tricia Ducker, Julie Anger, and Michelle Cross provided leadership and support for the entire squad. However, the strength of the Mustangs was in the defense. Including award winning Jill Gallagher and Amy Spaman, the team recorded 13 shut-outs in 20 games. Leading the Mustangs in scoring, Jenni Schuerman and Jodi Smalec each received honorable mentions in the all-division category. The Mustangs managed to reach the regional finals, but were defeated in a close match with Livonia Churchill, despite their gallant effort. Next season should give them a chance to avenge their disappointing loss with all 22 members returning to the team.

Track Team Gains Experience

Suffering from a lack of seasoned players, the 1986 track team struggled through another season. However, in 1987, many veterans runners returned, boasting track's most experienced team since 1983. Captains Kevin Haas, John Gird, and Dana Letarte did very well in long distance, middle distance and sprinting, respectively. Other bright spots included senior sprinters Rich Gird and Matt Hubert, pole vaulter Ray Smit, junior distance runner and All-American John Frisbee, high jumpers Rob Frazer and John Baumann, and distance runners Pat Naszradi and Greg Newton.

Cheerleaders Go To Nationals

The 1987 cheerleading squad was the finest example of talent and precision that Northville High School ever witnessed. The girls were camp champions, winning first place in overall competition. With the taste of glory still fresh, they went on to the regional competition in Ann Arbor, capturing the title of first runner-up. As if these accomplishments were not enough, the Northville cheerleaders went to the nationals in Florida and their routine was shown to the nation on cable station ESPN. In addition to this excellent competitive standing, the squad spurred Mustang sports forward with spirit and enthusiasm.

Cagers Win District Title

The 1986 women's basketball team overcame a mid-season losing streak to snatch the district title. Ending their regular season with 10 wins and 9 losses, the Mustangs, as host of the district tournament, defeated Stevenson in the first round and then eliminated North Farmington. The tournament concluded with a face-off against neighboring rival Novi. The Mustangs never slipped from the lead, thanks to their strong rebounding and 16 point contribution from Karen Baird. The Mustangs carried away a 49 — 46 victory and the first NHS women's basketball district title.

In addition to the outstanding team work, the Mustangs' superior individual talent boosted their performance. Tricia Ducker was named to the all-area and all-division teams. Sophomore Debbie Stevens received honorable mention for the all-area team and senior Sue Schrader was selected for the all-area second team. At the end of the season, the team elected Tricia Ducker most valuable player, Julie Anger best defensive player, and Jeannine LaPrad most improved player.

in everything you do! Well I think I've written enough. I just wanted to wish you luck.

Promising Future For Mustang Players

The 1986-87 men's varsity basketball team started off its promising season in fine fashion by winning its first three games. All six seniors on the team had virtually no game experience, with the exception of Steve Grant. Despite this situation, the team pulled off a thrilling double overtime victory against South Lyon at their first home game. The winning streak continued against Novi at home, and then again versus Churchill. Coach Omar Harrison and seniors Steve Grant, Dave McCreadie, Donn Hubbard, Dan Magdich, Tony Briningstool, and Jim Cerretani then had three cliffhanging victories under their belt. Unfortunately, momentum swung the other way as the Mustangs dropped their next six games. Hungry for a win, Northville pulled out a victory over first place Canton to break the losing streak. With the strong support of the many juniors on the team, the future of Mustang basketball looks bright.

Volleyball Serves Up A Storm

This year's Northville volleyball team possessed great potential and ability. Under the leadership of co-captains Robin Strunk and Tricia Ducker, the women have proven themselves a powerful team. Great efforts were made to improve communication between team members. The results of this concentrated team work were evident in the wins over South Lyon and Salem. With this kind of determination, the team should continue to be extremely successful in the future.

Wrestlers Battle For Experience

This year's wrestling squad has overcome the barriers of being a young and inexperienced team. Under the coaching of Jack Townsley and Bob Boshoven, the wrestlers have shown great improvement. The season ended with the best record in recent years, filled with tournaments that produced many medals for the team. Much of the team's success can be attributed to long hours of practice and intense participation in competition. This year's seniors included captains Jason Lazar and Paul Maliszewski, as well as Dana Letarte, Tony Greco, Tim Deuby, Chris Weaver, and John Baumann. Northville wrestling will have a bright future with the return of the many talented, younger members of the squad.

NHS Pom Pon Squad Dances with Spirit

The NHS pom pon squad began preparing for the 1987 school year well in advance. These talented young women spent the summer practicing and choreographing new and difficult routines. Attending camp at Saginaw Valley and stealing first and second place in camp competition, the squad returned to Northville to lift the spirits of students. Participating in prestigious competitions thoughout the season, the pom pon squad made 1987 an award-winning year.

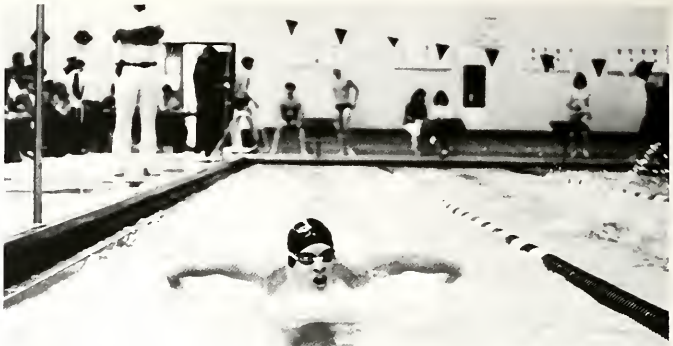
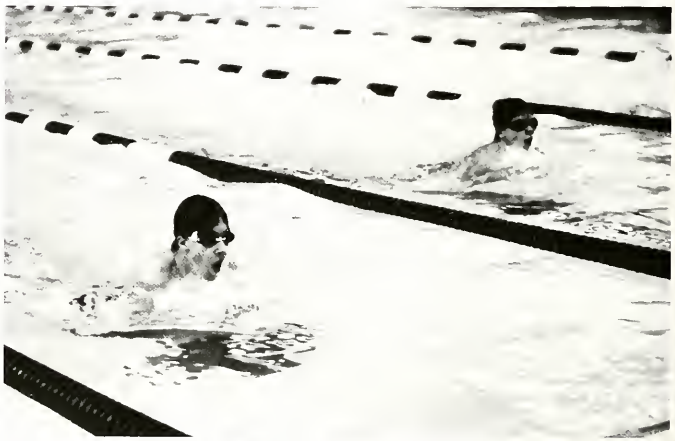
Swimmers Keep Abreast Of Competition





This year's men's swim team, composed primarily of juniors, has spent many dedicated hours practicing and sharpening its skills. Co-captains Jeff Buell and Craig Smith strengthened the team with their leadership and talent. Assistant coach Darius Mikalonis pushed each swimmer to perform to the absolute best of their ability and significantly improve their scores. As head coach, Terry Wayne further organized the team and brought them closer together. The divers, coached by Joel Grasley, also had a very successful season despite their lack of experience. Be it on land or water, Northville sportsmen excel.

Gymnasts Stretch to Meet Success

Despite illness and injury, the women's gymnastics team had a great season. Manager Mike Valentine returned for a second season and Michelle Charniga completed her third season as head coach, with tumbling coach Cecil Woodruff assisting her. Seniors Donna Dunnabeck, a fourth-year team member, and Theresa Gatti, a third year member, fronted the team as co-captains. Sophomore Wendy Beach returned for her second season to lead the team in scoring, with freshman Lee LaChance close behind . The team qualified for the regionals and turned out a fine performance. Next year, with a more experienced team and, hopefully, fewer injuries, the NHS gymnastics team will once again prove themselves a formidable squad.

Tracksters Keep Spirit

Despite a winless 1986 season, the spirited Mustangs did have a few bright spots. As coach Mike Webb stated, senior Karen Stinson was like "poetry in motion" as she kicked her way into sixth place in the 400 meter dash at the league meet, scoring the only points for Northville. With a lack of depth, Northville suffered the most in field events. Yet, with several versatile runners, the Mustangs covered some of the holes in the long distance events. At the end of the '86 season, Karen Stinson and Anne Griffith were named the team's most valuable runners, in short and long distance, respectively. Newcomer Linda Groves was awarded the team's most improved runner award. With a year of experience behind them, Northville's young runners will be an asset to the 1987 NHS tracksters.

Baseball Team Recruits New Members

The 1986 varsity baseball team brought home the WLAA Western Division title, but sadly lost over a dozen graduating seniors whose shoes will be hard to fill. With only a handful of returning players, 1987 introduced a new group of members to the Mantles. This spring was a season of major reconstruction and improvement. Under veteran coach Bob Frellick's instruction, the team practiced long hours and succeeded in uniting for yet another competitive season.

Freshmen Experience High School Life

While the freshmen were new in a school which at first seemed so large, they became actively involved in several activities. Among these were the Sadie Hawkins dance, flower sale, and participation in the student exchange program with Walled Lake Western. Co-president Barb Woodruff and treasurer Julie Howard attended the muscular dystrophy volunteer conference sponsored by Channel 2. The huge success of the freshmen limo raffle helped improve the financial situation of the freshmen class. For many freshmen, their first year at Northville High School will be fondly remembered as one filled with activity and school spirit.

Sophomores Shine in '87

The 1986-1987 year has been an exceptionally good one for the sophomores. School spirit shone brightly with great participation during Homecoming and Spirit week. Displaying a great variety of talents, the sophomores produced winners in difficult tests of skill, coming forth with a strong second place finish during Homecoming week. 1986-1987 was not only fun but prosperous due to successful flower sales and dances. Applying many different abilities, the Class of '89 promises an impressive future.

Juniors — Alive and Kicking at NHS

Owing to the enthusiasm and drive of their officers, the Class of '88 has staged many successful and creative fund-raisers and actively participated in school events, demonstrating their loyalty and support for their class. During the summer the class staged a highly profitable car wash, servicing the public as well as increasing their funds. The annual junior class magazine sale proved fruitful once again, as juniors sold to their family and friends, and earned cash and prizes for themselves. During Homecoming week, the juniors toiled together to build an old-time covered wagon float, which won second place. Later during the holiday season, they sponsored an old-fashioned sucker sale, satisfying sweet tooths and sparking good cheer. The Class of '88 continues to utilize their time and talents in exciting activities as they look forward to their senior year.

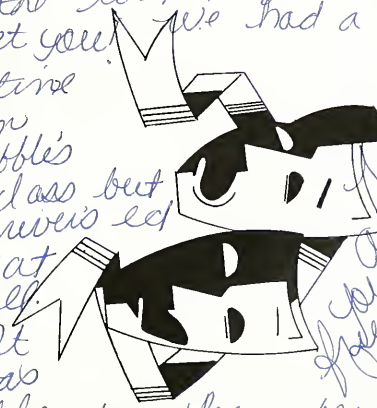
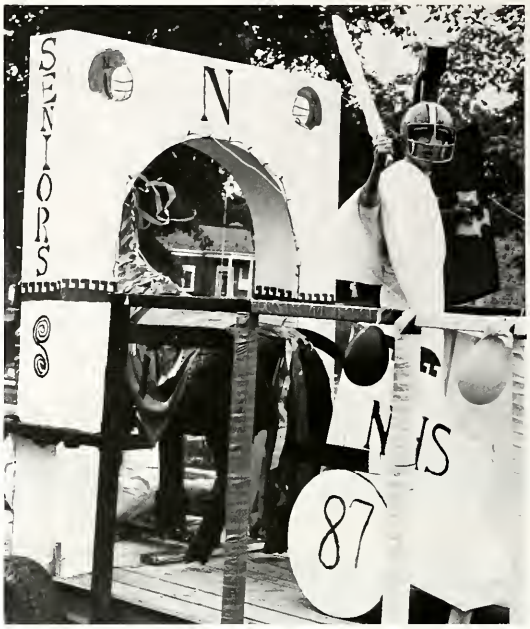
to talk to. We've been through a lot and I'll always remember China City #9! Won ton! almon chicken! Keep writing to me after you move away and come up to visit me at Christmas. We've had some great times. Like with the glow sticks (that weird guy we were afraid of) and the katsup! I want you to always remember to smile crooked or else the lolipop guild will get you. We had a tough time in Libbie's class but driver's ed beat all. It was the best. Remember the robot in Deadly Friend? B-B-B-B?



Love always your friend Jennifer

Senior Spirit Soars

From their first Homecoming experience of building Conan the Destroyer to their senior prom at the Dearborn Hyatt, the class of 1987 has certainly displayed their spirit and active involvement. With a well-rounded class of 318 students, the seniors have excelled in athletics, drama, spirit competition, and more. Once again, the seniors carried away first place in Homecoming week. Under the direction of two-year president Susie Rahimi, the class has held several successful fundraisers, including flower and button sales, a concession stand, junior magazine sale, the Sadie Hawkins Dance, and others. The class of '87 is especially known for their creativity, initiative, and money makers like donut sales and computer dating. Much to their dismay, the seniors were not allowed to hold the annual donkey basketball game, but they still managed to raise $7000 for their senior prom. With such an active, intelligent group, the class of '87 certainly has a promising future ahead of them.



The Roman gladiator, alias John Bauman, rides gallantly in the senior chariot.

Dear Chris,
over the months I have been mean to you, but my true feelings for you are very different. I think that you are a very attractive woman. And maybe we could go out sometime before you go. I hope you'll write me. How about letting me explore the galaxy.

Chris,
I'm not going to write the same old thing like "I'm glad I got to know you" because I'm sure you know all that. What I really want to say is that you're a very neat person and I've seen many changes in you since you moved up here. It's been nice and we've had some great times together though. I can't believe I'm for so long. I am disappointed that we haven't had any classes together. We miss when you move but I'm sure we'll keep in touch this summer. I'll have to spend a lot of time at the pool at your new school and work hard next year. Good luck

P.S. If you ever need to talk, I'll be here for you!

Love Becky

Special thanks to John Edwards, Bob Trombley, The Northville Record, and Carol Rahimi for their greatly appreciated assistance.

Chris -
It was nice having you in Biology - even though I don't really know you but I like to listen to you laugh. Have a nice time in Indiana - I'm sure you will - anything is better than Northville! Have a great summer & life.

Love -
Jacalyn

Chris -
Don't get hit by a bus because my budget doesn't allow flowers buying right now. Glad I have met U!

Bye

Chris

Well its been great knowing you this year too bad your moving next year because we probably would of been in the same math class next year. We'll miss your smart laugh next year so you'll have to train Jen to do it so we can all remember you when she does it. You'll have to write to me my address is 335 High St northville, mi 48167. Send me some of your poems because they are really good. We good luck next year and I'm sorry for when we got in the big fight at the beginning of the semester maybe we can become good pen pals! Good luck with your boyfriend down there luv ya

Kelly Padden

Chris, you are a really sweet person, stay that way! I know you will be successful!!
Love ya lots!
